3.2 The Employee will not accrue vacation time or vacation pay.

4. Termination.

4.1 If the Employer terminates the employment of the Employee for just cause, the Employee will only be provided with accrued compensation.

4.2 If the Employer terminates the employment of the Employee without just cause, the Employee will only be provided with:

(a) accrued compensation, and

(b) notice or pay in lieu of notice equal to the lesser of 1 week or the remainder of the Term.

4.3 The Employee may resign from employment by providing the Employer with 6 weeks' prior written notice. The Employee will continue to provide active service during the resignation notice period unless the Employer waives the requirement for active employment, either in whole or in part, in which case all other employment terms will continue until the end of the resignation period. Upon the effective date of resignation, the Employee will not be entitled to any compensation or damages except for unpaid earned compensation.

5. Confidentiality and Non-Disclosure.

5.1 The Employee shall only use the Confidential Information or Copies for the purpose of the Employee's employment and shall not directly or indirectly, without the written authorization of the Employer, either during the employment or at any time after termination of the employment, howsoever arising:

(a) use any Confidential Information or make or use any Copies for the Employee's own benefit or purposes, or for the benefit or purposes of any other person, company or organization whatsoever; or

(b) disclose any Confidential Information or Copies to any person, company or other organization whatsoever.

5.2 The restrictions in Section 5.1 do not apply to any Confidential Information which:

(a) is or becomes generally available to and known by the public, other than as a result of the Employee's unauthorized disclosure or material breach of this Agreement;

(b) was already in the Employee's possession or available to the Employee on a non-confidential basis before the Employee's employment commenced; or

(c) has been or is independently developed by the Employee without violating any of the obligations under this Agreement or without use of, or reference to, the Confidential Information or Copies.

5.3 The Employee shall be responsible for protecting the confidentiality of the Confidential Information and shall:

(a) keep the Confidential Information and Copies strictly confidential as long as they remain confidential;

(b) use the Employee's best efforts to prevent the use or communication of any Confidential Information or Copies by any person, company or organization (except for the purpose of the Employee's employment, or as authorized [in writing] by the Employer); and

(c) inform the Employer immediately on becoming aware or suspecting that any unauthorized person, company or organization knows or has used any Confidential Information or Copies.

5.4 If, either during or after the Employee's employment, the Employee is compelled or required to disclose any Confidential Information or Copies by law or court order or pursuant to any requirement, request or process of any legal, regulatory or governmental authority, the Employee shall:

(a) give the Employer immediate prior written notice of such requirement, request or process so that the Employer may seek an appropriate protective order or other remedy; and

(b) cooperate with the Employer to obtain such protective order or other remedy.

5.5 All Confidential Information and Copies are the property of the Employer. On termination of the Employee's employment, or at the request of the Employer at any time during the Employee's employment, the Employee shall:

(a) immediately return all Confidential Information and Copies to the Employer;

(b) immediately irretrievably delete and destroy any and all Confidential Information and Copies stored on any electronic means of storage, including personal computer networks, personal email accounts or personal accounts on websites, and all matter derived from such sources which is in the Employee's possession or under the Employee's control; and
